Volume 11 Issue 30

Today's speaker was New Mexico Chiropractic Center

Dr. Rion Marcus is a native of Albuquerque and a graduate of La Cueva High School and University of New Mexico where he earned a degree in biology. He pursued his dream of earning his Doctor of Chiropractic degree at University of Western States in Portland Oregon. Over the past several years Dr. Marcus was mentored by Dr. Kevin Atchley in the Palmer method. He is also an active member in the "High IQ Society" Mensa International.

While at UWS, Dr. Marcus excelled in the treatment and rehabilitation of athletes and sports related injuries, in which he was a treating intern at the USA World Youth Track and Field Trials and numerous local sporting events from soccer and ballroom dance to cyclo-cross and long-distance running events. He also had the privilege of treating the under-served communities throughout Portland with much needed chiropractic care.

Dr. Marcus has advanced training certificates in Active Release Technique® (A.R.T.) and Graston® soft tissue therapies. He also uses Kinesio® taping protocols. He has successfully treated elite distance runners, rock climbers, professional cyclists, Ironman triathletes, MMA and UFC fighters, and bull-riders in addition to "weekend warriors".

His emphasis in chiropractic technique considers dynamic movement and functional evaluation to comprehensively address the underlying cause of disease, biomechanical dysfunction, and to improve overall physical ability and wellness. He utilizes several adjusting techniques that are safe and gentle for all considerations. Most people enjoy a dramatic improvement in as little as six weeks. His youngest patient has been 10 days old and his eldest 98!!

His level of commitment and passion for his community led him back to his hometown to practice chiropractic. He is the preferred chiropractic provider for local cycling team, Mountain Top and the Rio Fit running club. Dr. Marcus has also partnered with several charitable foundations including Leukemia and Lymphoma Society, Cystic Fibrosis Foundation, Juvenile Diabetes Research Foundation, local 4H club, Canines for Companions, and other local charities.

Dr. Marcus is an avid outdoors-man, a family man, and loves the simple things in life. In his leisure time, he can be found hiking the Sandia's, golfing, training his dogs, or scouting for his next outdoor adventure!
