No Speaker: Group Discussion

This week's meeting of the Executives Association of Greater Albuquerque (EAGA) highlighted exactly why our organization continues to be such a powerful resource for local business leaders. Through a roundtable discussion, members had the opportunity to share more about their businesses, including the products and services they offer, as well as the opportunities and challenges they are currently navigating. The open exchange of ideas created meaningful dialogue, sparked new connections, and reinforced the practical value of learning from peers who understand the realities of running a business in our community.

Beyond the business insights, the camaraderie on display was a reminder that EAGA is more than just a networking group—it's a trusted circle of professionals committed to supporting one another's success. Members offered encouragement, perspective, and thoughtful input, strengthening relationships and building confidence that no one has to tackle challenges alone. This spirit of collaboration and mutual support is what makes EAGA a valuable and rewarding association for any executive looking to grow, learn, and contribute to a thriving local business community.

Announcements:

- The EAGA board of directors has confirmed that our dues will remain at $350/ quarter.
- We will continue to meet at Rio Bravo Brewing through the end of March. Updates will be shared as more information is available.
